

I think you're referring to the Stack'Em 2-Can Spring Loader Insulator (a double can, spring-loaded drink holder). The two best "near me" options are:

- Stack'Em (the original 2-can spring loader insulator)
- Website: stackem.net
- Notes: This is the product name itself—Stack'Em makes the 2-can spring loader, ships to the US and Canada, and the company notes that Scheels stores carry their product. (stackem.net)
- Scheels (retailer that stocks Stack'Em)
- Website: scheels.com

- Notes: Scheels lists Stack'Em in its inventory and has multiple locations where it's sold, so you'll likely find it near you if you have a Scheels nearby. (stackem.net)

Would you like me to look up the closest Scheels locations or other local shops near you? If you share your city or ZIP code, I'll pull live results for you.

Business names (as requested):

- Stack'Em
- Scheels

GOOGLE AI RESPONSE

× Not Found

It appears that "Two Can Spring Loader" most commonly refers to a spring-loaded beverage dispenser designed to organize and automatically advance cans in refrigerators or pantries. These are typically consumer products rather than specialized industrial equipment.

Finding local "companies" that *manufacture* these specific items near you is unlikely, as they are often mass-produced and distributed through larger retail channels. However, you can find these products from various retailers and online stores. Some prominent examples and manufacturers mentioned in search results include:

* Retailers like Walmart sell various brands of spring-loaded can dispensers, often in multi-packs.

* GLD Display manufactures various types of beverage pusher glides, including those for cans and bottles, which are used in fridges, coolers, and merchandise shelves. They highlight their direct manufacturing and competitive pricing.

* Several listings on platforms like Made-in-China.com indicate various suppliers and manufacturers of "Spring Loaded Bottle Can Drink Organizer for Fridge Pusher Glide."

When looking for these products, consider checking major retailers' websites for availability for delivery or in-store pickup in your area. For specialized or bulk purchases, you might explore distributors or manufacturers directly, though they may not have a local storefront "near you" in the traditional sense.